The Somerset Fair and Hop as Seen by An I. J. Man.

Fair week—the week of festivities and in fact the week of the year with this good people—has come and gone and Somerset and Pulaski county are proud, and very justly so, of their Fair, which was a grand success, both in show of stock and attendance; of their Hop, which was both elegant and brilliant, and lastly of the number of intensely enjoyable parties, which the fair daughters of Pulaski have given with credit to themselves and city likewise.

Arriving at the fair late Thursday evening, I was unable to see much of that day's exhibits, but I judged from the contented look on the faces of the 6,000 people present that it had been good. On Friday, the last day, I took it in from start to finish, and feel no hesitation in saying that it is up and tick in regard to stock exhibited with any of the eight fairs I have attended this year, and in attendance it is by far the surpassing one. A better managed fair, or a more orderly one I have never seen, and the management should be congratulated on the whole.

The trots and races have all been good and as the purses were large, of course the best of horses were entered. In the "free for all" trot Friday, McAlister, owned by J. Will James, of our county, walked off with first money, while El Hutchings' Nora Neal, from Boyle county, came in for second. The track was in excellent condition and vast improvements have been made since last year's fair, making the fair and all appointments as good as the best.

I am under obligations to Col. T. M. Thatcher, the clever secretary, for courtesies extended to me. He is an excellent man for the place and the Pulaski County A. & M. Association cannot, I think, do better than make him their secretary for all time to come.

About the Hop too much cannot be said. Beautiful women and gallant gentlemen made up the large number who attended, and when this is said it is unnecessary to add that everybody enjoyed to their fullest extent the hospitality of the Somerset Hop Club.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hail, only a few months ago Stanford people, are pleasantly located, and say they are well pleased with Somerset. Mr. Hail fills with credit the office of teller in the Somerset Banking Co.'s fine banking-house, and informed me that the bank was in fine condition. He was particularly kind to the writer and was the cause of a good many new subscribers being added to the legion that now take the Inter-

mon. My gratitude will not permit me to close this attempt at a letter without saying something of the most elegant dinner, set by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Richardson and attended by their two handsome daughters, Misses Lulu and Alice, and of which I was a fortunate participant. Substantial, delicate, fruits and in fact everything of an edible nature were in abundance at this delightful repast, and was partaken of by a large number with a zest that evinced their appreciation. The I. J. man of course did his part and tends his thanks to one and all of this excellent family.

HUSTONVILLE.

Emmett McCormack has moved to town to secure educational advantages for his increasing family.

Our roller mill is winning reputation rapidly as a producer of first-class flour. Steele, the enterprising owner of half the town, is still extending his business.

Those who had wheat in stack are taking advantage of the late dry days and are busily engaged in threshing. There is considerable complaint of damaged grain. Much damage is felt by the tobacco growers, some of whom have lost most of their crops.

Col. Weatherford, of Texas, arrived last week and is looking well. Mrs. M. W. Carpenter and nephew, Hugh Manning, left for Cincinnati Wednesday. Misses Lizzie and Blanche Twidwell are at Louisville. How Caldwell and sister, Miss Mary, of Paducah, are at Samuel Reid's. Richard Bradley, wife and baby of Harrodsburg, are at John Drye's. D. S. Carpenter, Ad Taylor, Smith Yowell, Wm. Bell and John F. Drye are visiting the West miscellaneous. Mrs. Mary Brodley and family have returned from a long sojourn at Harrodsburg. Mrs. Lucy B. Hayes, of Kansas, left for home last week much improved by her three months' visit.

If given in time, your chickens will never have gapes or cholera. We mean Gant's magic chicken cholera cure. Sold "no cure no pay" by McRoberts & Stagg.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

William L. Williams and Miss Matilda Black, of East Bernstadt, were married Sunday.

The colored Baptist Association was in session here Saturday and Sunday. Chickens are scarce and hard to catch at this writing.

Judge Vincent Boreing has been in Louisville and Cincinnati several days on business. Judge R. Boyd completed his full term of circuit court at Barbourville Saturday and came in to spend Sunday at home before leaving for Harlan, where court convened Monday.

Mr. Emory Farris, who has been sick for several days with typhoid fever, remains about the same. Miss May Boreing is very ill and it is feared has typhoid fever. Capt. and Mrs. F. B. Riley visited Louisville Monday. Jos. Owens, who is holding down the wires at Jefferson, Tenn., was home on a visit Sunday.

Col. R. S. Ewell has not yet signified his intention of standing as a living sacrifice upon his party's altar at the November election. He has been heard to complain that were there a shadow of a showing for the election of a republican in this district his name would never be mentioned, and he is right. Whatever Col. Ewell may be, he is by no means a fool, and he knows that it would be worse than a fool's errand for him to undertake to reduce McCreary's safe majority of 3,000 in the 8th; but there are few things a republican statesman would refuse to "take," even unto empty honors.

M. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

J. L. Arnold is acting town marshal. C. C. Williams went to Nicholasville to hear Swope and McKenzie.

Some of our visitors to the Somerset fair returned rather the worse for mind and with squeezed pocketbooks.

Dr. W. P. McKee writing from Florida says his Kentucky papers are very irregular on account of the yellow fever.

James Marot will pay a reward for the recovery of his gold watch, taken from Hix's repair shop. No questions asked.

The town organization is now complete. Wm. Pease is the first to suffer the error of his way. Arrested and jailed Sunday; plain old drunk.

J. M. Williams is taking in the celebration at Louisville. John Brown has followed the Chicago base ball club off. M. J. Miller, Jr., left yesterday for school at Kirksville. Miss Sue Williams left for Stanford Monday to visit a few days before returning to her home at Cartage, Ill.

This county is virtually without roads and there are no laws for collecting taxes for road working purposes. No law to have the roads worked? Why is this thus? Can our representatives inform us? They have engineered various bills through the legislature during the last ten years looking to road interests, and getting the sense of all growers of dark leaf.

C. Y. Wilson, Commissioner of Agriculture, advertises a Farmers' Institute to be held in Elizabethtown Oct. 10th. Many papers on important subjects to farmers will be read, but we fail to observe the name of any reader from this part of the state.

Claudius for $300; and purchased of same party the running qualities for the years '89, '90 and '91 of the Imp. yearling Wood Moss for $1,000. Wood Moss is thought to be the highest bred youngster in America, as he has 11 close crosses of the great Whitebone.

Posted farmers tell us that about 10 per cent. of the wheat was injured by sprouting in the stack, but even after that the crop is the largest for years. Corn was too far matured to be uninjured by falling down and that too is an unusually large crop. The fall grass is finer than ever known, and on the whole the farmer's lot is just now a very happy one.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story. The truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town, I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney: complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from pain and soreness and am able to do all my own work. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth and removed completely all disease and pain. Try a bottle, see if I didn't think it was worth while."—[New York World.

Mr. W. H. Morgan, merchant, Lake City, Fla., was taken with a severe cold, attended with a distressing cough and running into consumption in its first stages. He tried many so called popular cough remedies and steadily grew worse. Was unable to sleep. Finally tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and found immediate relief, and after using about a half dozen bottles found himself well and had no return of the disease. No other remedy can show so grand a record of cures as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Guaranteed to do just what is claimed for it.—Trial bottle free at A. R. Penny's Drug Store.

WILLIAM M. HULL.

Though not a good likeness, the above cut gives a tolerable fair idea of the features of the youngest, as he is one of the brightest and best, of the Courier-Journal's editorial writers—Mr. William M. Hull. A little over 30 years ago he was born at Evansville, Ind., to which place his father had in his younger days removed from Virginia. He was given all the advantages of the schools of that city and afterwards coming to Louisville, he studied law at the University and graduated.

His newspaper work began nine years ago, first with the Post, on which he served two years, and then on the Courier-Journal, with which he has ever since been associated. From the first his work showed true journalistic ability, which his superiors recognized by frequent promotions, until now he occupies a position of high degree, and in a manner which reflects at the same time credit upon himself and on the greatest newspaper in the South and West, if not in the United States. He seems to be an especial protege of Mr. Watterson, with whom he has his office, and between whom there are the most agreeable personal relations.

Of Mr. Hull's more recent work, the report of the late State convention and subsequently of the St. Louis convention is especially notable for the graphic manner of description and the comprehensive measure of detail. Besides other editorial work, he has special charge of the "In and About Kentucky" column, one of the brightest and most interesting in the paper. He has the happy faculty of remembering faces and names, with anything that he hears of a man of any prominence, and although not native and to the manner born, he will soon be as well acquainted in Kentucky as Managing Editor E. Polk Johnson, who, it is said, is able, while presiding over a State convention, to call the name of any man who rises to address the chair. Social, clever and warm-hearted, Mr. Hull is loved by all the fraternity whom he honors by his membership, and each will watch his upward career and feel gratified at the realization of his every ambition.

On New Year's day, 1889, Mr. Hull was married to Miss Ella Vaughn, daughter of Capt. J. F. Vaughn, of Evansville, a lovely little woman, and two boys and a girl have blessed the union, which is a most happy one.

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., SEPTEMBER 18, 1888

W. P. WALTON.

FLANAGAN'S famous inquiry at a republican convention, "What are we here for, except for the offices?" might have been changed by a member of the G. A. R. to "What do we meet for except to demand more pensions?" The National Encampment answered the question last week without being asked, however, by voting 420 to 22 for the presentation of a bill to Congress to give every soldier, sailor or marine of the army and navy between April 1861 and July 1865 for a period of 60 days or more, a service pension of $8 per month; and to all who served a period exceeding 800 days an additional amount of one cent for each day's service exceeding that period, and the passage of a bill placing the widows of soldiers, sailors and marines on the pension list without regard to the time of service or cause of soldier's death.

On being asked by a Pennsylvania editor if he ever said that $1 a day was enough wages for a working man, Mr. Harrison sent the following evasive response: "There may be campaign lies so plausible as to require a denial, but this is certainly not of that sort." If he didn't say so, why didn't he say he didn't? that's the question. The honest man at the White House knows nothing about equivocation, but when asked if the charge made in the North American Review that he had declared "he believes in free trade as he believes in the Protestant religion," answered: "I never made use of that expression or anything like it. The statement is a pure, unadulterated fabrication."

Owing to ill-health, John P. Murray, the founder and for 14 years the editor of the Bardstown Record, has sold out to his partners, and in the last issue of that paper takes a touching leave of the people he has served so long and so well. Mr. Murray was one of the hardest working and most painstaking of editors, and has done much to elevate the standard of Kentucky papers. We wish him a speedy restoration to health and good luck wherever his lot may be cast.

Da. TANNER, who fasted 40 days in New York some eight years ago, is seeking further notoriety by claiming that men, like bears and other animals, can hibernate, and says he is studying with a view to experiment in the line by permitting himself to be sealed up in an airtight coffin to be laid away till sometime that he may designate. It is to be hoped that he will test his idea at an early date and that those in charge will forget to open the coffin at all.

Gov. Hill, of New York, in accepting a renomination, says that the success of the national ticket overthrows all personal considerations and expresses the hope that every independent voter would support Cleveland, whether he could vote for Hill or not. That's the way for a true democrat to talk, and Gov. Hill has increased the estimation in which he is held by doing so.

Each democratic club will be entitled to five representatives to the convention of clubs at Louisville, October 4, and one for every additional 100 members. The clubs in this county should meet at once and appoint five men, who will attend, and make the meeting a memorable one. Hon. Frank Hurd and other distinguished speakers will be present and deliver addresses.

As predicted, none of the boys would tackle Billy Breckinridge for the nomination in the 7th and the committee declared him the nominee of his party. It is said that Col. Swope has expressed his willingness to carry the republican banner in the final fight, but we incline to the opinion that he is smart enough to know that discretion is the better part of valor.

F.C.U. returns from Maine show a republican plurality of 18,495, or about 1,500 less than in 1884. The republicans increased their vote 904 and the democrats 2,154. And yet this is the famous victory the rads pride about! If the whole country vote at the same ratio in November Eclipse Cleveland will be first—the rest nowhere.

NEITHER Noo nor the Little Red Hog has signified his intention of accepting the empty honors that the republicans and prohibitionists have given them, but we learn that Noo is setting up nights working on his letter of acceptance, which will be even a better document than Harrison's, which we give on our fourth page.

The Paducah Standard says that in the last 12 years 27 persons have been killed in Daviess county and not a single murderer has stretched hemp. This is a fearful state of affairs, but it is no worse than in many other counties of the dark and bloody ground, where the taking of human life is the cheapest of all crimes.

The yellow fever scourge continues to hold Jacksonville in its baleful embrace and the tide of suffering that comes from there is enough to make brave hearts grow faint. To date there have been 995 cases and 126 deaths.

THE Spencer Courier says, "Think of the leading part our Congressman, Gov. McCreary, has taken in Congress, and then think of the 'Little Red Hog' taking his place." This is too much for the imagination. Suggest something easier.

Put 'Em on the Outside.

I can give advice on the point proponed to Mrs. Langtry by a correspondent, whether pads, if worn at all, should be worn inside or outside of the stays. Outside, by all means. Let your corset, my sliu and flat sister, be fitted simply to every square inch of its surface. It will be the more comfortable, it will produce the better contortions and it will be greater in deception—if that's what you're at. To me the very idea of carrying a pad of bird seed or what not within the corset is disgusting. But utility torbids it, too. The upper edge of a stuffed corset is dead sure to be sharply defined to view, and that makes you look as though you were standing breast high behind a fence. No, no. If you require symmetrical futility, put it into each gown by itself, and let it overlay the corset. If your dress be fluffy and projecting, there need be no padding. If otherwise—well, then, otherwise. Anyhow, the hogus shape will be twice as deceptive if it looks pliable and yielding than if confined by the bones of a corset. It won't wobble with its wearer's supple movements.—[Clara Belle in Cincinnati Enquirer.]

THE last legislature passed a law for the benefit of druggists, which provides that no man shall sell certain drugs and medicines until he has procured from the State Board of Pharmacy a certificate as to his qualification to handle them. The penalty is a fine of $25 for the first, $50 for the second and $100 for the third offense, and so on. Druggist Bourne has held himself liable under the act, but he pleads total forgetfulness of the law, which, however, is not a valid excuse for his failure to comply with its requirements. GEN. GARRISON.

The following is the full text of Gen. Garrison's Letter of acceptance:

"IN IANAPOLIS, Sept. 11, 1885.

Hon. M. M. Estes and others, Committee, etc.

"GENTLEMEN.—When your committee visited me on the Fourth of July last and presented the official announcement of my nomination for the presidency of the United States by the Republican convention, I promised as soon as practicable to communicate to you a more formal acceptance of the nomination. Since that time the work of receiving and addressing, almost daily, large delegations of my fellow citizens, has not only occupied all of my time but has in some measure rendered it unnecessary for me to use this letter as a medium of communicating to the public my views on the questions involved in the campaign.

"I appreciate very highly the confidence and respect manifested by the convention, and accept the nomination with a feeling of gratitude and a full sense of the responsibilities which accompany it. It is a matter of congratulation that the declarations of the Chicago convention upon the questions now attract the interest of our people as so clear and emphatic. There is further cause of congratulation in the fact that the convention utterances of the Democratic party, if in any degree uncertain or at all contrary, can now be judged and interpreted by executive acts and messages and by definite propositions in legislation. This is especially true of what is popularly known as the tariff question. The issue cannot now be obscured. It is not a contest between schedules, but between wide apart principles. The foreign competitors for our market have, with quick instinct, seen how one issue of this contest may bring them advantage, and our own people are not so dull as to miss or neglect the grave interests that are involved for them.

"The assault upon our protective system is open and definite. Protection is assailed as unconstitutional in law, or as vicious in principle, and those who hold such views sincerely, cannot stop short of an absolute elimination from our tariff laws of the principle of protection. The Mills bill is only a step, but it is toward an object that the leaders of Democratic thought and legislation have clearly in mind. The important question is not so much the length of the step as the direction of it. Judged by the executive message of December last, by the Mills bill, by the debates in congress and by the St. Louis platform, the Democratic party will, if supported by the country, place the tariff laws upon a purely revenue basis. This is practical free trade—free trade in the English sense. The legend upon the banner may not be 'Free Trade,' it may be the more obscure motto, 'Tariff Reform,' but neither the banner nor the inscription is conclusive, or indeed, very important. The assault itself is the important fact.

"Those who teach that the import duty upon foreign goods sold in our market is paid by the consumer, and that the price of the domestic competing article is enhanced to the amount of the duty on the imported article—that every million of dollars collected for customs duties represents many millions more which do not reach the treasury, but are paid by our citizens as the increased cost of domestic productions resulting from the tariff laws—may not intend to discredit in the minds of others our system of levying duties on competing foreign products, but it is clearly and distinctly discredit in their own. We cannot doubt, without impugning their integrity, that if free to act upon their convictions they would so revise our laws as to lay the burden of the customs revenue upon articles that are not produced in this country, and to place upon the free list all competing foreign products.

"I do not stop to refute this theory as to the effect of our tariff duties. Those who advance it are students of maxims and not of motives. They may be safely allowed to call their project 'Tariff Reform,' if the people understand that in the end the argument coups free trade in all competing products. This end may not be reached abruptly, and its approach may be accompanied with some expressions of sympathy for our protected industries and our working people, but it will certainly come, if these early steps do not arouse the people to effective resistance. The Republican party holds that a productive tariff is constitutional, wholesome and necessary. We do not offer a fixed schedule, but a principle. We will revise the schedule, modify rates, but always with an intelligent provision as to the effect upon domestic production and the wages of our working people.

"We believe it to be one of the worthy objects of tariff legislation to preserve the American market for American producers, and to maintain the American scale of wages, by adequately discriminating duties upon foreign competing products. The effect of lower rates and larger importations upon the public revenue is contingent and doubtful, but not so the effect upon American production and American wages. Less work and lower wages must be accepted as the inevitable result of the increased supply of foreign goods in our markets. By way of compensation for this reduction in his wages, and the loss of the American market, it is suggested that the diminished wages of the workingman will have an undiminished purchasing power, and that he will be able to make up for the loss of the home market by an enlarged foreign market. Our workingmen have the settlement of the question in their own hands. They now obtain higher wages and live more comfortably than those of any other country. They will make oblique between the substantial advantages they have in hand and the deceptive promises and forecasts of those theorizing reformers. They will decide for themselves and for the country whether the protective system shall be continued or discontinued.

"The fact of a treasury surplus, the amount of which is variously stated, has directed public attention to a consideration of the methods by which the National income may best be reduced to the level of a maximum and necessary expenditure. This condition has been seized upon by those who are hostile to protective customs duties as an advantageous base of attack upon our tariff laws. They have magnified and nursed the surplus, which they affect to deprecate, seemingly for the purpose of exaggerating the evil in order to reconcile the people to the extreme remedy they propose. A proper reduction of the revenues does not necessarily, and should not suggest the abandonment or impairment of the protective system. The methods suggested by our convention will not need to be exhausted in order to effect the necessary reduction. We are not likely to be called upon, I think, to make a present choice between the surrender of the protective system and the entire repeal of the internal taxes. Such a contingency, in view of the present relation of expenditures to revenues, is remote. The inspection and regulation of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors is important, and the revenue derived from it is not so great that the repeal of the law need enter into any plan of revenue reduction.

"The surplus now in the treasury should be used in the purchase of bonds. The law authorizes this use of it, and if it is not needed for current or deficiency appropriations, the people and not banks in which it has been deposited, should be the advantage of its use by stopping interest upon the public debt. At least those who needlessly hoard it should not be allowed to use the fear of a monetary stranglehold, thus produced, to coerce public sentiment upon other questions.

"Closely connected with the subject of the tariff is that of the importation of foreign laborers under contracts or service to be performed here. The law now in force prohibiting such contracts received my cordial support in the senate, and such amendments as may be found necessary effectively to deliver our workingmen and women from this most inequitable form of competition will have my sincere advocacy. Legislation prohibiting the importation of laborers under contracts to serve here, will, however, afford very inadequate relief to our working people, if the system of protective duties is broken down.

"If the products of American shops must compete in the American market, without favoring duties, with the products of cheap foreign labor, the effect will be different, if at all, only in degree, whether the cheap laborer is across the street, or over the sea. Such competition will soon reduce wages here to the level of those abroad, and when that condition is reached we will not need any laws forbidding the importation of laborers under contract—they will have no inducement to come, and the employer will no incentive to send for them. In the earlier years of our history public agencies to promote immigration were common. The pioneer wanted a neighbor with more friendly interests than the Indian. Labor was scarce and fully employed. But the day of the immigration bureau has gone by. While our doors will continue open to proper immigration, we do not need to issue special invitations to the inhabitants of other countries to come to our shores or to share our citizenship. Indeed, the necessity of some limitation is obvious. We should, however, refuse to permit foreign governments to send their paupers and criminals to our ports. We are also clearly under a duty to defend our civilization by excluding alien races whose ultimate assimilation with our people is neither possible nor desirable. The family has been the nucleus of our best immigration and the home the most potent assimilating force in our civilization.

"The objections to Chinese immigration are distinct, and conclusive, and are now so generally accepted as such that the question has passed entirely beyond the stage of argument. The laws relating to this subject, would if I should be charged with their enforcement, be faithfully executed. Such amendments or further legislation as may be necessary and proper to prevent evasion of the laws and to stop further Chinese immigration would also meet my approval. The expression of the convention upon this subject is in entire harmony with my views.

"Our civil compact is a government by majorities; and the law bases its sanction and the magistrate's respect when this compact is broken. The evil results of election frauds do not expand themselves upon the voters who are reared of their rightful influences in public affairs. The individual, or community, or party that practices or connives at election frauds, has suffered irreparable injury and will sooner or later realize that to exchange the American system of majority rule for minority control is not only unlawful and unpatriotic, but very unsafe for those who promote it.

"The discrimination of a single legal elector by fraud or intimidation is a crime so grave to be regarded lightly. The right of every qualified elector to cast one free ballot, and to have it honestly counted, must not be questioned. Every constitutional power should be used to make this right secure, and to punish frauds upon this ballot. Our colored people do not ask special legislation in their interest, but only to be made secure in our common rights of American citizenship. They will, however, naturally distrust the sincerity of those party leaders who appeal to race for support only in those localities where the suffrage is free and election results doubtful, and compass their disfranchisement where their votes would be controlling and their choice cannot be coerced.

"The nation not less than the states, is dependent for prosperity and security upon the intelligence and morality of the people. This common interest very early suggested National aid in the establishment and endowment of schools and colleges in the new states. There is, I believe, a present exigency that calls for still more liberal and direct appropriations in all of common school education in the states.

"The territorial form of government is a temporary expedient, not a permanent civil condition. It is adapted to the exigency that suggested it, but becomes inadequate and even oppressive when applied to fixed and populous communities. Several territories are well able to bear the burden and discharge the duties of free commonwealths in the American Union. To exclude them is to deny the just rights of their people, and may well excite their indignant protest. No

Question of the political preference of the people of a territory should close against them the hospitable door which has opened to two-thirds of the existing states. But admission should be resolutely refused to any territory, a majority of whose people cherish institutions that are repugnant to our civilization or inconsistent with a republican form of government.

"The declaration of the convention against 'All combinations of capital, organized in trusts or otherwise, to control arbitrarily the condition of trade among our citizens' is in harmony with the views entertained and publicly expressed by me long before the assembling of the convention. Ordinarily, capital shares the losses of idleness with labor; but under the operation of the trust, in some of its forms, the wage-worker alone suffers loss, while idle capital receives its dividends from a trust fund. Producers who refuse to join the combination are destroyed, and competition as an element of prices is eliminated. It cannot be doubted that the legislative authority should and will find a method of dealing fairly and effectively with these and other abuses connected with this subject.

"It can hardly be necessary for me to say that I am heartily in sympathy with the declaration of the convention upon the subject of pensions to our soldiers and sailors. What they gave and what they suffered I had some opportunity to observe, and in a small measure, to experience. They gave ungrudgingly; it was not a trade, but an offering. The measure was heaped up, running over. What they achieved, only a distant generation can adequately tell. Without attempting to discuss particular propositions, I may add that measures in behalf of the surviving veterans of the war and of the families of their dead comrades should be conceived and executed in a spirit of justice and of the most grateful liberality, and that, in the competition for civil appointments, honorable military service should have appropriate recognition.

"The law regulating appointments to the classified civil service received my support in the senate, in the belief that it opened the way to a much-needed reform. I still think so, and, therefore, cordially approve the clear and forcible expression of the convention upon this subject. The law should have the aid of a friendly interpretation and be fairly and vigorously enforced. All appointments under it should be above every possible partisan consideration and influence. Some extensions of the classified list are practicable and desirable, and further legislation extending the reform to other branches of the service, to which it is applicable, would receive my approval. In appointments to every grade and department, fitness and not party service should be the essential and discriminating test, and fidelity and efficiency the only sure tenure of office. Only the interests of the public service should suggest removals from office. I know the practical difficulties attending the attempt to apply the spirit of the civil service rules to all appointments and removals. I will, however, in my sincere purpose, if desired, to advise you of reform.

"I notice with pleasure that the convention did not omit to express its solicitude for the promotion of virtue and temperance of our people. The Know-Nothing party has always been friendly to everything that tended to move the hearts in our people from pure and proper, and will in my future be true to its history in this respect.

"Our relations with foreign countries should be characterized by friendliness and respect. The right of our people and of our ships to impartial treatment should be insisted upon with unyielding firmness. Our nation is too great, both in material strength and moral power, to let it go to bluster or to be suspected of timorousness. Vigilance and inconsistency are incompatible with successful diplomacy as they are with the National dignity. We should especially cultivate and extend our diplomatic and commercial relations with the Central and South American states. Our fisheries should be fostered and protected. The hardships and risks that are the necessary incidents of the business should not be increased by an indiscriminate exclusion from the near lying ports.

"I cannot extend this letter by a special reference to other subjects upon which the convention gave an expression. In respect to them, as well as to those I have noticed, I am in entire agreement with the declarations of the convention. The resolutions relating to the commerce, to the rebuilding of the navy, to coast defense and to public lands, express concurrence to all of which I gave my support in the senate. Inviting a calm and thoughtful consideration of these public questions, we submit them to the people. Their intelligent patriotism and the good Providence that made and has kept us a nation will lead them to wise and safe conclusions. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

BENJAMIN HARRISON."

Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:

"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines in fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and taking the second I was completely cured." —John W. Benson, 50 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

"Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more

Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight." —Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and could not sleep; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyson (of Fernandina, Fla.) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I had not had a blister upon my body for the last three months." —T. E. Wiley, 141 Chambers st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse, and became almost insupportable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured." —Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.
